

Finalisté New Economic Talent 2016

(abecední řazení):

Zsofia Komuves, Central European University

Práce s názvem: The Effect of Incarceration on Labor Market Outcomes in Hungary

Levente Lippenszky, Eötvös Loránd University

Práce s názvem: Inflation Dynamics in New Keynesian Models with Cost Channel

Michal Šoltés, Institut ekonomických studií Fakulty sociálních věd Karlovy Univerzity

Práce s názvem: Optimal Unemployment Insurance, Distance to Frontier, and Endogenous Growth Model

Barna Elek Szabó, Central European University

Práce s názvem: Short-term Trading and Informational Cascades in Financial Markets

Ondřej Tobek, University of Cambridge

Práce s názvem: In Search of Ultimate Low Frequency Liquidity Proxy

Dalších 6 TOP prací (abecední řazení):

Mohamed Abouaziza, University of Sussex

Paper: The Productivity Effect of Rest Pauses and Optimal Working Hours: Evidence from Hawthorne Experiments.

Rezo Beradze, International School of Economics at Tbilisi State University

Paper: Macro Stress Test – The Case of Georgia

Luca Flora Drucker, Eötvös Loránd University

Paper: The Effects of the 1999 Polish Educational Reform on Labour Market Outcomes.

Khilola Dushamova, Westminster International University in Tashkent

Paper: Breastfeeding and Son Preference: Evidence from Kyrgyzstan and Pakistan

Atanas Pekanov, University College London

Paper: Estimating the Effects of Macroprudential Policy Using a Small Open Economy DSGE Model

Shamil Sharapudinov, National Research University, Higher School of Economics

Paper: Factor-Biased Technological Change, International Trade, and the Skill Premium: Cross-Country Evidence